So your solution in the Microsoft settlement is to make the product even MORE ubiquitous by putting the software and related hardware into the only place where non-WinIntel Machines have a stronghold--education? Do you have stock in Microsoft or are you selling short on Mac shares? Sheesh.

I don't think you should EVER have gotten involved. I NEVER thought it was a good idea, no matter how much I dislike Microsoft. Getting the feds involved is sure-fire prescription for double-speak.
